

Degree of Development of Regions

By all characteristics and development capacities (spatial, demographic, economic, financial, educational, health care, scientific, cultural, infrastructural, and other) the Belgrade region stands out and the greatest inflow of the so-called 'economic' migrants is registered in this very area. From the aspect of spatial development imbalance, the area of the city of Belgrade is a marked point of polarization and the most developed and most prosperous region by the volume and structure of human capital.

Degree of Development of Regions. The degree of development of regions suggests that the Belgrade region surpasses the average of Serbia more than two times and generates a 7 times larger value (measured by GVA per capita 2008) in comparison with the Southern region.
